

Shop confidently with Cars.com

Side-by-Side Comparisons
Listings & Prices
Consumer & Expert Reviews

cars.com
Confidence Comes Standard.®

Who will be best dressed at the Oscars?

Need an escape? Vacation homes for $300,000...

Moments of Venn

Peeps contest: Last chance to enter

Federal agents arrest Amine El Khalifi; he allegedly planned to bomb Capitol

View Photo Gallery — The FBI and the U.S. Capitol Police arrested a Moroccan man Friday in downtown Washington after a lengthy investigation into an alleged plot to carry out a shooting spree and a suicide bombing at the Capitol.

Text Size | Print | E-mail | Reprints

By Sari Horwitz, William Wan and Del Quentin Wilber,

Federal authorities on Friday arrested a 29-year-old Moroccan man in an alleged plot to carry out a suicide bombing at the U.S. Capitol, the latest in a series of terrorism-related arrests resulting from undercover sting operations.

For more than a year, Amine El Khalifi, of Alexandria, considered attacking targets

How to Wire the Brain to Pick Up a New Language in 10 Days

How to Wire the Brain to Pick Up a New Language in 10 Days

The Post's Foreign Bureaus

including a synagogue, an Alexandria building with military offices and a Washington restaurant frequented by military officials, authorities said. When arrested a few blocks from the Capitol around lunchtime on Friday, he was carrying what he believed to be a loaded automatic weapon and a suicide vest ready for detonation.

2041 Comments

Weight In Corrections?

The gun and vest were provided not by al-Qaeda, as Khalifi had been told, but by undercover FBI agents who rendered them inoperable, authorities said.

Video

Police say a terrorism suspect has been arrested in an FBI sting operation near the U.S. Capitol while planning to detonate what he thought were explosives. (Feb. 17)

Graphic

View full graphic

How a plot was hatched — and thwarted

They said Khalifi had been the subject of a lengthy investigation and never posed a threat to the public. On Friday afternoon, he made an initial court appearance in U.S. District Court in Alexandria, where he was charged with attempting to use a weapon of mass destruction against federal property. He faces life in prison if convicted.

Khalifi “allegedly believed he was working with al-Qaeda,” said Neil H. MacBride, U.S.

attorney for the Eastern District of Virginia. Khalifi “devised the plot, the targets and the methods on his own.”

In several recent terrorism sting operations, critics have accused federal investigators of provoking suspects and, in some cases, suggesting possible targets or tactics. Legal experts say the FBI sometimes walks a fine line in such cases.

“You want to be very sure that the narrative is not substantially provided by the government,” said Karen Greenberg, director of the Center on National Security at Fordham Law School, who studies terrorism sting operations. “There’s a lot of gray area in these cases.”

But officials said Friday that Khalifi, who allegedly conducted surveillance on the Capitol and engaged in methodical planning, was no unwitting victim.

Khalifi arrived in the United States when he was 16 and was living as an illegal immigrant in Northern Virginia, having overstayed his visitor’s visa for years, officials said. In 2010, he was evicted from an Arlington apartment after having failed to pay rent.

The landlord of that apartment, Frank Dynda, a retired patent lawyer, said, “He was getting mysterious packages labeled ‘books,’ but I didn’t think there were books in them.”

Dynda said he thought Khalifi was “suspicious and hostile,” and Dynda reported Khalifi to Arlington police. Two officers visited Dynda’s apartment building soon after the report but told him there was no reason to pursue the matter, he said.

It was unclear how Khalifi came to the attention of federal authorities. According to the criminal complaint filed in court Friday, a confidential source reported to the FBI in January 2011 that Khalifi had met at a residence in Arlington with individuals, one of whom produced what appeared to be an AK-47 assault rifle, two revolvers and ammunition.

Continued 1 2 Next Page

View all correspondents by bureau

The Post Most: World

Most Popular

1. Armored SUV could not protect U.S. agents in Mexico
2. Secret U.S. cable warned of Pakistani havens
3. NATO personnel withdrawn from Afghan ministries in wake of deadly attack
4. U.N. sees spike in Iran's uranium production
5. Red Cross fails to gain safe passage for evacuations from embattled part of Syrian city

Top Videos

Top Galleries

Powered by Trove

Featured Advertiser Links

$30 BILLION for LUNG CANCER VICTIMS

W&L HIP REPLACEMENT -- did you get one after '03?

The only candidate fighting for the middle class: Pres. Obama. Join us. Sign up for email updates from President Obama's 2012 campaign.

Looking to buy a home? Visit TWP Real Estate section for the latest open houses.

Make Your Vanguard Investing More Profitable - Free Research Report Reveals Best & Worst Funds

Sponsored Links

Mom Makes Botox Doctors Furious

Mom Reveals Clever Wrinkle Therapy That Makes Botox Doctors Furious!
www.consumerproducts.com

Get Athena Pheromones

Enjoy more affection! Biologist Winnifred Cutler's unscented formulas.
www.athenainstitute.com

10 Best Credit Cards

Compare Multiple Credit Card Offers & Apply Online. As Seen on PBS TV.
www.CardRatings.com

Buy a link here

Add your comment

Read about the changes to comment thread appearance, moderation.

Type your comment here

Read what others are saying

About Badges

Top Comments (280)

All Comments (2041)

Sort Comments: Newest to Oldest

Pause loading new comments

kelly123 wrote:

2/18/2012 11:39 AM CST

It must be very disappointing to the FBI that they spent a year turning the guy into a front page terror victory andat their big moment they get bumped off the front page by Whitney Houston's funeral. The country would have been just as safe and the FBI could have been out doing more serious work trying to really protect us if they had just deported this illigal when the first found him a year ago. That of course would have been too easy and would have generated no headlines.

Recommend Recommended by 16 readers

Reply

Report

Buddydog responds:

2/18/2012 11:47 AM CST

Right, because dumping him back into Morocco as a free man makes us much safer, right? No possible way he'll ever be able to get back into the country, right? Think about what you're saying. Would you rather have a potential terrorist wandering the earth, whereabouts unknown, or safely tucked in a prison cell? Give this some thought.

Recommend Recommended by 8 readers

Report

View more responses

Add your thoughts...

andrew23boyle wrote:

2/18/2012 8:51 AM CST

When it comes to "entrapment", I think that terrorism and political violence are bit different than property crimes because the motivation is not self-interest or material temptation. That's not to say it would be impossible to "entrap" a terrorism suspect but while one may be motivated by passing greed or an "irresistible" offer for money, drugs and so on from an undercover agent to commit a property crime one would not otherwise commit, for one to be even susceptible to "entrapment" for an ide... See More

Recommend Recommended by 3 readers

Reply

Report

Felix19 responds:

2/18/2012 8:55 AM CST

they'll just say the dude had a "predisposition" to do the alleged crime - a requirement for the affirmative defence of entrapment.

remember Mayor Barry. - okay, let's hear it, Repulican morons - about Mayor Barry.

Recommend

Report

View more responses

Add your thoughts...

edbyronadams wrote:

2/18/2012 8:14 AM CST

The best thing about this is not the arrest of this individual. The best thing is the doubt is sows among domestic jihadis. Is that recruiter al Queda or FBI?

Recommend Recommended by 14 readers

Reply

Report

fromanmd responds:

2/18/2012 8:21 AM CST

"Domestic Jihadis" aren't really very "Domestic" are they?

These 90IQ nitwits they round up, train, equip and radicalize for this week's episode of Paranoid Security Theater can't even tell a functioning weapon from a dummy. Do you think they possess the chemistry and electronics knowledge to make a functioning bomb?

There was never a threat from this nitwit, maybe a desire but certainly not the wherewithal to carry it out with any credible level of threat.

This guy would have been more successful ... See More

Recommend Recommended by 12 readers

Report

View more responses

Add your thoughts...

Load more comments

Top World Stories

People Also Read

Most Popular Videos

Sponsored Links

Mom Makes Botox Doctors Furious

Mom Reveals Clever Wrinkle Therapy That Makes Botox Doctors Furious!
www.consumerproducts.com

Get Athena Pheromones

Enjoy more affection! Biologist Winnifred Cutler's unscented formulas.
www.athenainstitute.com

10 Best Credit Cards

Compare Multiple Credit Card Offers & Apply Online. As Seen on PBS TV.
www.CardRatings.com

Buy a link here

Ways you can get us

Mobile
Newsletter & alerts
Post Store
Photo Store
Washington Post Live

Apps
RSS
Facebook
Twitter

The Washington Post

Work for us
Community Relations
PostPoints
Corrections/Suggestions
Archive
Contact the Ombudsman
Report a problem

Web site

Make us your homepage
Digital Guidelines
Ask The Post

Newspaper

Subscribe
Home delivery service
e-Replica

Advertise

In the newspaper
On the web site
Mobile
Events

The Washington Post Company

Post Company web sites

Partners