

Julia Letlow secures $1M for collaborative project between ULM, city of Monroe

U.S. Rep. Julia Letlow announced last week that she secured $1 million to fund a collaboration between the University of Louisiana Monroe (ULM) and the city of Monroe for entrepreneurial expansion and a business incubator.

The $1 million was included in a $37.39-million funding package secured by Letlow to fund community projects for the 5th District of Louisiana in the Consolidated Appropriations Act of 2024.

“My number one mission in Congress is to give back to our communities,” Letlow said. “My office and I worked hard to secure the millions in funding that will be crucial for Louisiana’s economic growth and prosperity.”

The project proposal from ULM and the city of Monroe was officially titled “Creating an Environment for Economic Development – Entrepreneurial Innovation Expansion.” The $1 million will go toward the creation of additional space for small businesses to have a place to grow and developing rural-based satellite facilities for business incubator space in lower-income areas of the region.

“We are so excited and look forward to the fruits of our collaboration and what this project will produce for northeast Louisiana,” Mayor Friday Ellis said. “The impacts of working together to enhance the small business ecosystem and create space for entry-level and new businesses to grow and expand will create a stronger economy for our region.”

“The city is proud to be able to partner with ULM on this initiative, strengthening our existing entrepreneurial culture and providing opportunities for small businesses to flourish,” Ellis added.

Additionally, the funds will help renovate existing space for K-12 institutions to use for training and establishing an entrepreneurial spirit among youth in the city of Monroe and constructing a resource center for under-represented populations and individuals with seemingly limited career options to explore entrepreneurship.

ULM and the city will continue to work together to finalize and execute the proposal.

“We are grateful for the leadership and support of Congresswoman Julia Letlow for securing funding for this initiative that will help create businesses, jobs and grow our economy,” ULM President Ron Berry said. “Her passion and commitment for this region were instrumental in bringing the University and the city of Monroe together for this impactful project.”

“We also appreciate the leadership of Mayor Friday Ellis and the Monroe City Council for their partnership and look forward to working with them to expand business opportunities and success in our region,” Berry added.
